While taking your scenic drive, you are likely to stumble upon some very historic and renowned places: Covered bridges. They are scattered about the state, almost like a scavenger's hunt, placed variously for you to find. Some to this day are even still operational, and you'll have to drive across them to get to where you're going. Others are simply just for admiring now a days, but none the less special! Better bring the camera for these! Listed below are some of our favorite, local covered bridges. You can also find a link for a complete list of all the covered bridges throughout NH.

Diana's Bath is a series of waterfalls located off of the West Side Rd. about ten minutes into the woods. It is super easy to find, with a lot to pull right into and park your vehicle. It's a perfect place to visit for some serenity and, of course, beautiful photo ops! This is something local you definitely want to see if you're in the area.

Echo Lake is the perfect place to bring the whole family. Enjoy your day laid out on the beach, or swimming through the lake. Hikers can take a leisurely stroll through the woods. On site, you'll also find grills and picnic tables for BBQing. What more could you want on a summer's day?

you've ever traveled to NH or made plans to, more than likely you've heard the famous name "Cannon Camagus Highway." This scenic bypass is pretty much world famous, drawing people in from all over the country and beyond! Though route 112 itself runs for over 56 miles, the eastern portion of the highway "The Kanc" (scenic byway) spans about 35 miles long, passing through the White Mountains from Lincoln to Conway. Just driving along, you will notice so much to do and see. There are swimming areas, places to pull off and park, hiking trails leading to beautiful waterfalls and scenic views, camping areas, and much more! Just as you pull onto the Cannon Camagus from Conway, you'll come across the Ranger Station. You can stop in there to get all the run downs on The "Kanc", or please refer to the links provided on this page to find info on exactly what you're looking for.

One of the most beautiful sights to see is New England during the foliage season. Whether you are visiting the state of New Hampshire or simply driving through, the bright reds, yellows, and oranges are sure to grab your attention. Visitors from all over the country -and the world!- come to bask in all the glory of the fall season in NH! Early October is the peak of the season for spectators to view the trees before all the leaves dwindle to the ground. But, there are still perks to coming after then! Kids will enjoy raking together big leaf piles and jumping right into them - just as kids native to the area grow up doing! And, of course, beautiful photo opportunities!
